With all that has happened this year it seems more important than ever to settle this inane case against Microsoft. The federal government and states should be spending their precious resources on helping the economy recover, aiding the working poor and unemployed and figuring out a way to provide health insurance to the millions of Americans who lack it.

Right now the state of Florida is cutting budgets for education and other important social needs while some fat cat lawyers and glory hound politicians are wasting the taxpayers money by trying to drag out this case.
